December 13, 1922.

Mr. Howland Wood, Curator,
American Numismatic Society,
New York City.

Dear Mr. Wood:

About a year ago, according to my memory, I sent to the Society a unique pocket piece given to me by Mr. George St. Paul, who is very anxious to learn something about it if he could. I described it at the time, as follows:

"The pocket piece is the size of a copper cent, containing on one side the flag of the United States, surrounded by 13 stars and the legend "The Flag of Our Union, 1863"; on the other side the name "Dix" and the words of his famous telegram: "If anybody attempts to tear it down shoot him on the spot."

Please let me know if you have ever been able to ascertain the history of it.

Very truly yours,

W. O. Hart.

December 16th, 1922.

Mr. W. O. Hart,
134 Carondelet Street,
New Orleans, La.

Dear Mr. Hart:-

In looking through our correspondence I can not find that we have ever received a letter from you enclosing one of the Dix tokens.

This piece belongs to that big series known as Civil War or Patriotic Tokens issued extensively in the North chiefly in 1863 and 1864. These were gotten out by various die-sinkers for merchants who used them during a scarcity of small change. The Dix piece is one of the commonest of the lot.

There has recently been a little booklet issued for 20¢ on some nineteen varieties of this token by D. C. Wisner, Hatfield, Pennsylvania, which may interest your friend.

I have been looking through our duplicates to see if we had one of these tokens, and I would send it on to you, but find we have none just now. They can be gotten for a few cents each.

Trusting this answers all your questions, I remain,

Yours very truly,

Curator.
